- Increase safety and equity using strength and resiliency based tools and strategies

OLDER PERSONS IN THE JUSTICE AND MENTAL HEALTH SYSTEMS

Christine Conrad, Policy Analyst (Justice Lead), Canadian Mental Health Association, Ontario Division

For the first time ever, there are more Canadians aged 65 and older than Canadians below age 15. All areas of the justice system are encountering the older adult population daily and with increasing frequency. Many of these cases pertain to age-related conditions like dementia, mental health conditions, and/or substance use. The traditional justice system is not designed to meet the needs of this vulnerable population.

The Provincial HSJCC has created a navigational guidebook for older adults and adults with age-related conditions who interact with the justice system. The Older Adults and the Justice System: A Navigational Guidebook for Caregivers and Service Providers explores housing options, consent and capacity, substitute decision-making, and promotes best practices in policing, courts, forensic mental health and correctional settings. Resources for specific services are highlighted throughout the guide.

The presentation will provide an overview of the challenges that persons, with age-related illnesses, encounter within the justice and civil mental health systems. Participants will learn about the legal needs of this population and be an overview of resources and supports available, including the Guidebook.
